“Ubiquity”, an exhibition of photographs dealing with space and presence. Gabrielle Cooper is a young London artist and photographer whose thoughts and work return to recurrent themes: spatial composition and human connections. She explores, with varying photographic techniques, ways in which she can visually convey her experiences and ideas of space to others.

We can enter space with our physical presence and mental presence. We can enter any realm we choose. With the use of our minds we have the ability to have Ubiquity.
